*The difference between the general fund budget amount and the anticipated revenue for that budget, in 1968-69 through 1974-75, (from the sources shown) is the amount contributed to Foundation Programs by non-isolated school districts. In addition, for the year 1971-72, most of the difference shown is due to errors in budget calculations made by school districts. The anticipated revenue figure, which was calculated in the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, is all that can be expected to be received by the school districts; the difference between budgeted amount and anticipated revenue must be made up out of revenues for the 1972-73 school year.

Prior to 1973, the Permissive Levy was only at the District Level.

GENERAL FUND BUDGET

Since 1963-64 the General Fund Budget has increased 159%. The Voted Levy showed the largest growth, 753%. It now comprises 23.3% of the General Fund Budget compared to 7.1% in 1963-64. The Foundation Program dollar amount increased 125% while the Permissive Levy Amount total gained 79% during the previous eleven years.

REVENUE FOR FOUNDATION PROGRAM SUPPORT
1963-64 through 1974-75

The three basic components of Foundation Program Support are County Equalization; State Equalization Aid; and State Deficiency Levy (if required). Prior to 1973-74, Interest and Income (now a part of Earmarked Revenue) and County Deficiency Levy (no longer existing) were also included.

¹Levies were set to raise the amounts shown. The amounts of revenue actually collected by the counties vary somewhat from the expected figures. Although no data are available on exactly how much of actual collections of county taxes was applied to foundation program support, the anticipated amounts shown can be considered to be reliable approximations.

²This level was not achieved because the amount of earmarked revenue was lower than expected; the actual level was 89%.

*Since 1973-74, Interest and Income has been a part of Earmarked Revenue.

ENROLLMENT ESTIMATES BY GRADE -- 1974-75 to 1979-80

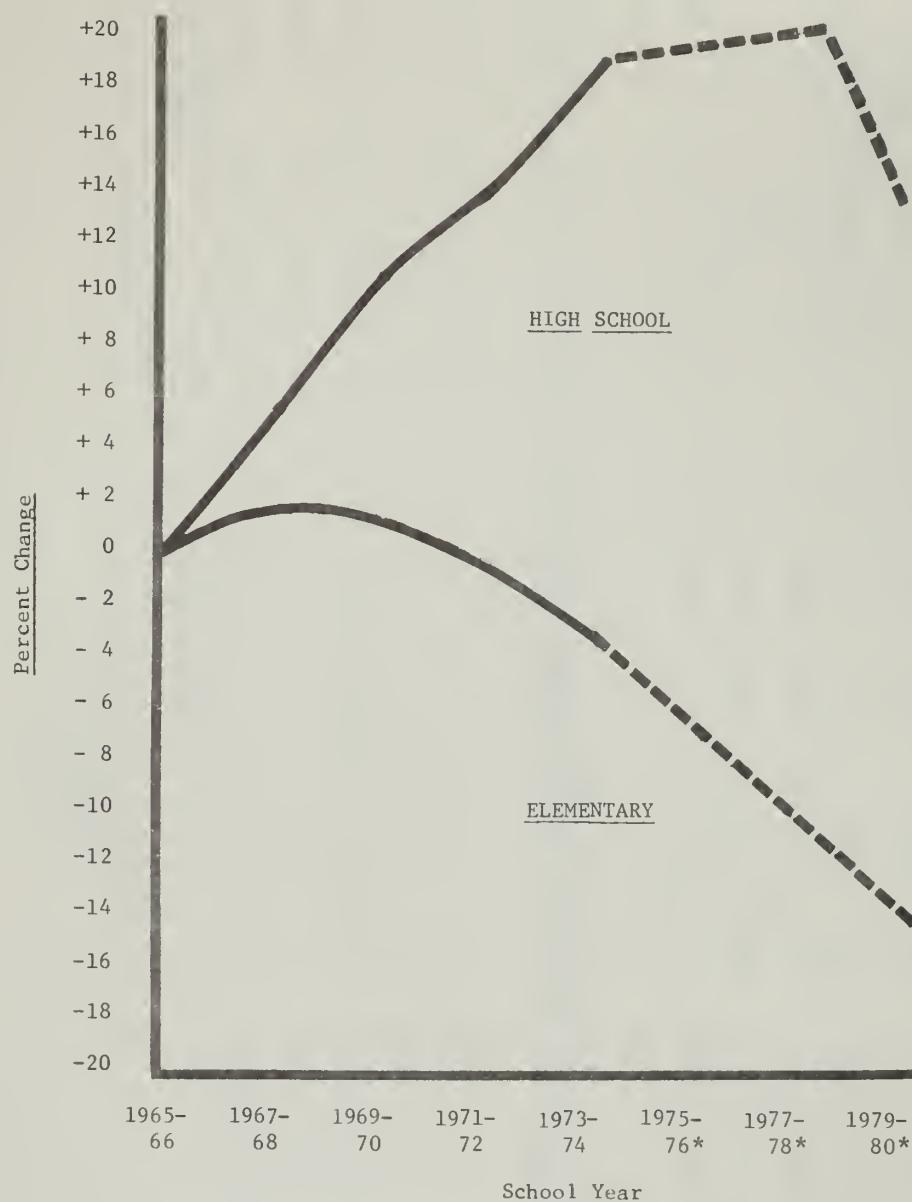

Application of a technique by N. L. Englehart utilizing start ratios for first graders in terms of live births (i.e. of the number of live births in a given year, what ratio begin the first grade in the appropriate year) and a calculated retention rate from grade to grade enables approximate predictions of school enrollment by grade for future years.*

PUBLIC ELEMENTARY AND HIGH SCHOOL ENROLLMENT
 Percent Change Since 1965-66

Public school enrollment as a whole increased 3.2% from 1965-66 to 1974-75. High school enrollment increased nearly 20%, but elementary enrollment dropped over 3%. Projected estimates indicate a continued decline in elementary students until 1980 with high school numbers beginning to decrease at that time.

LIVE BIRTHS

With the exception of Jefferson, every county in Montana averaged fewer births per year in the time period 1970-73 than in the peak years, 1955-59. The map on the opposite page indicates those counties which averaged over 50% fewer births per year; 26-50% fewer; and less than 25% fewer. These figures, as enrollment information, show the most dramatic decreases in the eastern, middle, and predominantly rural sections.

POPULATION CHANGE BY COUNTY*
1960-1970

Montana school enrollments are affected by growth rates. Growth rate is attributable to birth rate and migration. As with other aspects of population change in Montana, large diversities exist from county to county. While the state as a whole gained 2.9% in population during the decade from 1960-1970, only 15 counties gained population. Forty-one counties declined in population; 14 over 15%.

MEDIAN AGE CHANGE BY COUNTY
1960-1970

Lowered birth rates and mobility have caused changes in the median age of the population. Generally counties with the greatest decreases in live births and population have had the greatest increases in median age. Conversely those counties experiencing growth generally have had a decreasing median age.

In contrast to elementary school data, the number of high school districts has remained fairly constant (+1.8% since 1964-65) while the total ANB has increased nearly 30% in the last ten years. The declining number of districts and average number belonging were exclusively in ANB categories less than 100. These figures are consistent with enrollment data showing increases in high school numbers and decreases in elementary enrollment.

ESEA TITLE I
Fiscal Year 1974

Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (P. L. 89-10) provides federal financial assistance to school districts and state institutions for handicapped, neglected and delinquent children to expand and improve their educational programs by various means which contribute to meeting the special educational needs of educationally deprived children. In addition, Title I, ESEA, provides funds for education programs for migratory children of migratory agricultural workers. This Act is entirely federally financed and requires no matching funds.

Grants under Title I go to the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction which in turn establishes allocation amounts to school districts and to state institutions and for migrant education programs. Allocation amounts are based on a formula established by law.

Education agencies eligible for a grant may receive such grants only after submitting an application for approval to the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction. The application sets forth the identification of the needs of eligible children, the number of eligible children to participate in a program, the program designed to assist eligible children in raising their level of educational attainment, the budget and the provisions for evaluating the program. The Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction is responsible for approving the program application, monitoring the program at the program site, maintaining fiscal control and records, evaluating the effectiveness of the program and making payments to each applicant.

The primary purpose of Title I is to provide educational assistance for educationally deprived children. Education agency officials may use these funds for a broad range of educational activities, however, educational activities must be of such size and scope as to show reasonable promise of success in raising the level of educational attainment of program participants.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION
Fiscal Year 1974

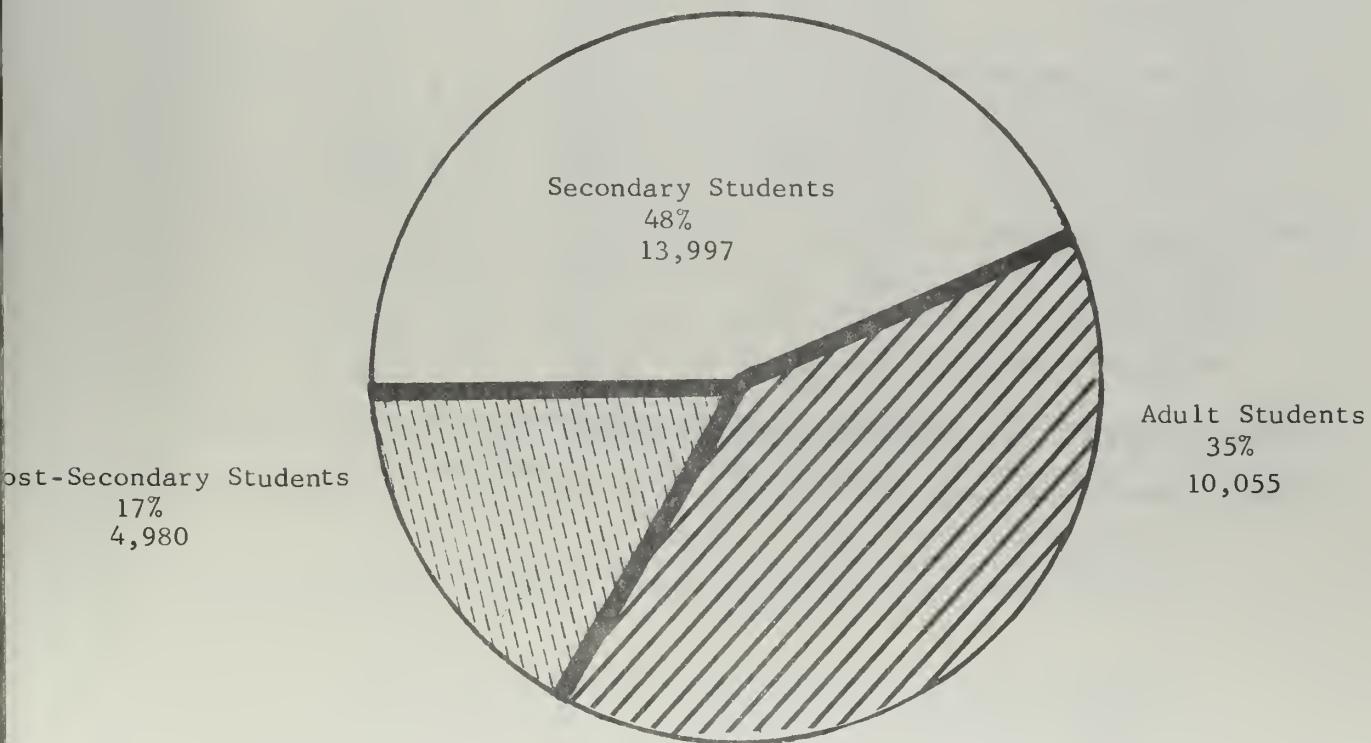

Vocational education programs were conducted in 121 high schools, five junior high schools, five post-secondary vocational-technical centers, three community colleges, five state institutions and one four-year college in 51 counties of the state. A total of 337 vocational education programs was conducted in 30 of the 33 counties or portions of counties designated as economically depressed areas within the state. Seventy communities in 26 counties or portions of counties identified as areas with large numbers of school dropouts had a total of 410 vocational programs conducted.

Of the total number of students enrolled in vocational programs designed for gainful employment, 48 percent of them were secondary students; 17 percent were post-secondary students; and 35 percent were adult students.

In those schools that offered vocational education programs, 16 percent of them offered at least two vocational service area programs; 26 percent offered at least three; and in 32 percent of the schools, five or more vocational programs were offered.

More than 5,000 students enrolled in vocational programs were active members of vocational student organizations. This membership consisted of 2,078 students in Future Farmers of America; 766 in Distributive Education Clubs of America; 1,918 in Future Homemakers of America; 453 in the Office Education Association; and 219 students in the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America.
